Our City Comment & discussion by THOMAS D. WATSON

Los Angeles Is Becoming City of Terror

IF traffic congestion as it now exists is allowed to continue, Los Angeles will be known as "The Forbidden City."

The new regulations are in no way helping the situation so far as we can see.

By prohibiting left turns at nearly all the corners in the shopping district and doing away with both right and left turns at some of the principal corners probably 50 per cent more autos are kept on the street than would be true under other regulations.

* * *

IF a short time for parking was allowed, time enough for a short business transaction, the Los Angeles officials would find the number of cars on the streets would be materially reduced.

Under present regulations, a business transaction which under ordinary circumstances would take only a few minutes, now runs into the hour.

* * *

THE arrest of a band of Salvation Army workers in Los Angeles yesterday, is a lasting shame to that city.

There is no organization that does as much good all over the civilized world as the Salvation Army and this work is one of service.

That the Los Angeles police should arrest them for holding street meetings is small business. The police department of that city has all it can do to control the lawless elements and would do well to confine their activities along this line.

* * *

THE city of Glendale is richer today to the extent of over $50,000. The money which was paid as part payment on purchase price and improvements on the airport project and Glendale-Verdugo park has been returned to the city treasury. The exact amount is as follows:

From airport	$33,123.98
From park	18,042.88
Total	$51,166.86

* * *

THERE are citizens in Glendale who conscientiously believe a mistake has been made in the loss of these public recreational places. We do not agree with this thought and our opinion is without doubt shared by a large majority of our citizens, as was clearly demonstrated at our last election.

We recognize the value of parks to any community and are in favor of a liberal policy towards their establishment.

* * *

AS regards Glendale-Verdugo park, we think we can do well without it. The topography of the ground is to be found multiplied many times in Griffith park, which is much nearer to the center of Glendale than Glendale-Verdugo park. All we need is a bridge of entry, and from the present indications it will not be long until this is built. The right of way has already been secured.

* * *

THE movement recently started by the Eagle Rock chamber of commerce to change the names of Central and Glassell avenues to Eagle Rock boulevard, should meet with the ready support of all the Eagle Rock citizens. Los Angeles city officials should also be favorable to the change.

The naming after the city of the principal street running into it, not only advertises the city but is an aid to the traveling public.

* * *

ANOTHER issue taken up by the chamber of commerce at the same meeting was a movement to have all extensions to Hill drive not less than forty feet wide from curb to curb.

As mentioned in this column recently, Hill drive, as a beauty spot, is not to be surpassed by any residential section in Los Angeles, and everything possible should be done to preserve its beauty.

GLENDALE STABLES PASSING AWAY TODAY

The first step in the demolishing of one of Glendale's oldest landmarks—the Glendale stables on Glendale avenue just north of Broadway—was started Monday.

Mr. Ingledue, present owner of the property, which he purchased last April, stated this morning that he expects a brick business block will be erected on that site after the hotel is under way.

CITY SCHOOL BUDGET FOR YEAR FORMED

Board of Education Decides on Broadway School Contracts

TOTAL IS $866,335

Details of the Award to T. H. Anderson on General Work

The two big items of business transacted at the meeting of the Board of Education, Tuesday night, were the adoption of a budget for the coming year as presented by Superintendent White, and the opening of bids and awarding of contracts for the new building at the Broadway school.

The general contract was awarded to T. H. Addison of this city, on a bid for the general contract of $21,743 with alternates for maple floor and slate blackboards which would bring the bid to $22,183. Other bids were: North Pacific Construction Co., $23,381; Witt & Ike, $26,457; May & Hellman, $22,888; Bruin, Steed & Steed, $23,996; George W. Campbell, $21,750; Fred Wallace, $22,500; Elmer Elliott, $22,272.

The heating contract went to the Potter Radiator Corporation on a bid of $532. As the Potter system is in use in the present Broadway buildings the board did not wish to consider any other system. Other bidders were the Pacific Gas Radiator Co., and Coast Radiator Corporation.

As the money from the sale of bonds is now available, the board executed formal contracts with the firms to whom jobs have been awarded, on buildings already started.

Messrs. Hibben, Black & White were given authority to close up all land deals now pending and to negotiate for other land purchases which the board is considering.

Final plans for the Doran school presented by Architect Alfred Priest were approved. Bids for the Doran building will be opened July 10.

The resignation of Miss Edna F. Duffy, teacher of the Wilson Intermediate, was accepted.

A letter received from the Central avenue P.-T. A. complaining of the unsafe condition of the Central avenue bridge was read and the board authorized Superintendent White to write a letter to the county supervisors setting forth the conditions complained of and asking for action to remedy them.

Following is the budget as accepted:

Elementary school budget. Part I—Maintenance: General control $14,760; teachers' salaries, $242,425; other expenses of instruction, $15,000; library, $2,800; operation of school plant, $34,000; maintenance of school plant, $3,000; fixed charges, $3,400; auxiliary agencies and other sundry activitoies $,4,800. Grand total $320,185.

Part II—Capital outlays and permanent improvements. Total for above—$546,150; grand total for parts I and II—$866,335.

Part I—Maintenance: Estimated receipts from other sources (rentals), $15,000; estimated outstanding maintenance indebtedness on June 30, 1923, to be met out of balance carried over, $5,000; balance desired June 30, 1924, $12,000; total estimated expenditures as per maintenance budget, $320,185. Total of above—$337,185.

Part II—Capital outlays and permanent improvements: Estimated receipts from district bonds—$500,000.

MRS. FARNUM IS RELEASED: HER HUSBAND HELD

Evidence in the case against Mrs. Franklin Farnum of Hollywood, which was heard in the local police court yesterday was dismissed by Judge Lowe on account of lack of evidence. Judge Lowe stated this morning, however, that it was his opinion that Mrs. Farnum had been drinking heavily, but he felt that the evidence was so meagre that his decision would not be upheld if he had bound the prisoner over to the Superior court.

Franklin Farnum, who was arrested on a charge of resisting an officer, was, however, held to appear in the higher court.

LAUSANNE, June 27.—The allies today took another step toward "bringing Russia back to Europe" by a decision to invite the soviet to sign the Turkish straits convention when the Lausanne treaty is ready for signature.

PORT AND PARK MONEY IS REPAID

Deals Releasing City From Contracts Completed by Purchasers

IS NEARLY $51,000

Haddock-Nibley Now the Sole Owners of Former Glendale-Verdugo Tract

All of the money paid by the city for the airport tract and the Glendale-Verdugo park was paid into the city treasury this morning.

The amount includes the payments made on both tracts, together with the cost of the improvements that had been added to the properties.

From Haddock-Nibley came all the money paid for the contract held by the city on the Glendale-Verdugo park tract.

From the syndicate which took over the airport tract, came as much more.

On the account of the airport there was paid to the city $33,123.98.

On the account of the Glendale-Verdugo park the amount received by the city was $18,042.88.

These payments represent all that the city had actually paid out in connection with the purchase under contract of these tracts together with all the money that had been spent on improvements.

SWAPS HAVE FUNNY WAYS WITH THEM

New Inspiration Every Day in the Glendale Daily Press

LADY WITH CORONA

Could Not Use Duck Suit, She Said to the He Swapper

BY JENNIE SWENSEN

Swap! Swap! Swap! Swap!

Everybody's doing it. How did you come out on your real? Did you make a swap of it?

If at first you didn't succeed don't cry over spilled milk, but try, try and try, and you'll be a swapper "buy and buy." Look things over again and swap. You'll make it eventually if not now.

Perhaps you are not attracted toward the things others want to swap, so you tell them in swap verbage what you have, and take your own turn as asking, "What have you?"

Then the answers begin to pour in. One advertiser reports that in answer to an offer she made to swap a Corona typewriter she received proposals to swap it for an electric heater, a solid oak library table, a new Robbins & Meyer electric fan, a complete set of twenty-four volumes, same as new, "Modern Business," of the Alexander Hamilton Institute; a pair of field glasses, or a couple of good duck or linen suits (The last of which she says would hardly prove useful).

Others, she admits, seem rather inviting, and confesses being rather overwhelmed by the many offers and doesn't know which to take. She says that a little insignificant typewriter takes on a new dignity, when compared with some of these things.

You may have even better luck. Anyway, there's nothing like trying. For prompt service call Glendale 97.

FOOTHILL FOLKS ENJOY FESTIVAL OF STRAWBERRIES

The strawberry festival held under the auspices of the Foothill Improvement association Tuesday evening at the Grand View school drew a good attendance of members and guests, who greatly enjoyed the excellent program provided.

Alexander Mitchell, president, introduced the entertainers and late in the evening called for new members to strengthen the organization and also announced the good news that after July 1, mail for the Grand View district will be received through the Glendale office, a statement received with applause. Mr. Mitchell called attention to the fact that this is one of the things the association has been working upon.

W. L. Baker made a short address relative to the improvement of transportation facilities for the neighborhood. Mr. Vose, a newcomer, spoke of the advancing values of realty due in a measure to the work of the association. L. T. Rowley called attention to the increased attendance on the Grand View school.

Miss Gladys Alexander sang a group of soprano solos which drew much applause. She was accompanied on the piano by Mrs. Alexander Mitchell.

Mrs. Alma Danford, city librarian, asked for the co-operation of the district in connection with library work.

Miss Maude Nicol and Miss Celia Davidson gave wonderful Scotch and Irish costume dances, with Miss Jessie Davidson of Long Beach at the piano.

Mrs. W. Morgan sang Scotch and Irish songs, which were much appreciated, Miss Davidson acting as her accompanist.

Little Velda Meadows danced fairy dances and Miss Gene Fritch, in Tomboy costume, gave clever recitations.

No less enjoyed were the luscious strawberries served with whipped cream and home-made cake by members of the program and entertainment committee, of which Mrs. Charles Elsperman is chairman.

The evening was a financial as well as an artistic success. The next regular meeting will be postponed until July 9.

WIDOW AND BLIND YOUTH RUN STAND

Mrs. W. G. Evans and Sailor Boy to Sell Papers at Brand and Broadway

PRESS EQUIPMENT

Both Are Aided in the Disposal of Newspapers

Randall Lindsay, the blind youth who takes up his new duties today at the little news stand down at the corner of Brand and Broadway, is to have a partner in his business.

Mrs. W. G. Evans, widow of the late Mr. Evans, who plied his trade smilingly and patiently at this corner until his recent death, is to divide the time with Lindsay in selling the Glendale Press, Los Angeles Express and Los Angeles Times.

The Glendale Press, in planning his arrangement, is causing a brand new stand to be constructed for the papers, and this is to be arranged to afford comforts for the elderly widow and the blind youth.

In a previous issue the Press carried a story of the Lindsay youth's misfortune. Though deprived of his eyesight, he has clung to an ambition to be self-supporting, for his elderly mother, with her sister operates the Two Sisters' Hand laundry, 1421 East Wilson avenue, and it was only upon possibilities being offered for his being self-supporting that Randall Lindsay consented to leave his work at a broom factory, which work he learned through the San Francisco Blind association, and came to Glendale to be with his mother.

Mrs. Evans, who resides at 105 South Maryland, also finds it necessary to be self-supporting, and has consented to share this stand with Lindsay. Her duties will begin the early part of next week.

No more capable and deserving successors to W. G. Evans could be found. Many a heart was saddened over the news of his death and these same former customers of the little, cheery, smiling old man, will find a warm spot in their hearts for the brave little widow and the determined blind youth who are to take up his work.

POLICE FIND OLD WINERY IS STILL VERY MOIST

Six 5-gallon glass containers filled with wine were found Monday by Glendale officers at the old winery, located at the corner of Milford and San Fernando, according to Chief Fraser.

Peter Ghlia, who owns the old winery, is, according to Chief Fraser, under bond not to violate the prohibition law. One of the conditions of this bond, states Chief Fraser, is that whatever wine is carried shall be kept under lock and key, but that the six bottles found by the police department were located in a shed at the rear of the winery.

Whether or not Ghlia has violated the conditions of his bond is now being ascertained by federal authorities.

TUESDAY CLUB BURNS PAID BILLS

Impressive Ceremony Is Held at Annual Banquet of Club

Four Hundred Members Seated at the Big Gathering of Year

The annual luncheon and program of the Tuesday Afternoon club held Tuesday at 12:30 and for the first time in its new club home, was a great festival and a great triumph for the president, Mrs. Daniel Campbell, the officers associated with her, curators and committee chairmen and members who have worked with her shoulder to shoulder to earn the money to meet the financial obligations of the clubhouse.

A part of the celebration was a miniature bonfire on the platform of the auditorium, when duplicates of the bills for clubhouse furnishings, all of which have been paid with money earned by the various sections and committees, leaving the club free from debt except its mortgage, were burned upon a tray by Mrs. Roberts and Mrs. Chase, in the presence of a big audience, which followed the leadership of Mrs. Campbell in singing "Glory, Glory, Hallelujah."

The dining room was a pretty sight with its five long tables running the length of the room and more tables in the tea room and the palm room, all gay with crystal baskets filled with coreopsis and marigolds. The color was repeated in the bon bon baskets, the decorations being the work of the committee headed by Mrs. C. O. Pulliam. Not less than 400 were seated, the table of honor over which Mrs. Campbell presided being against the north wall where special guests were placed with officers, curators, directors and committee chairmen.

At the right hand of the president sat Mayor Spencer Robinson, who assisted Mrs. Campbell in leading the singing of the grace, "Be Present at Our Table, Lord," to the tune of the doxology. Later the mayor was persuaded to sing and Mrs. A. L. Bryant played the piano accompaniment.

Dr. Margaret York and Mr. York were then introduced that the mayor might realize the support of another man in the midst of so many women.

Mrs. Campbell gave a little greeting in the Gaelic tongue which meant 100,000 welcomes, and introduced guests to right and left, both from abroad and her own coworkers who submitted reports for their sections or committees and whose contributions to the furnishings of the clubhouse Mrs. Campbell recited with pride and appreciation.

These tributes to members and guests constituted a running program while the delicious luncheon was being served by the hospitality committee, of which Mrs. Colin Cable is chairman. At its conclusion the audience adjourned to the auditorium, where the program as published in the Glendale Daily Press was given by young women graduates of Glendale High,: Lois Olmstead, pianiste; Elizabeth Mottern, soprano; Dorothy Watson, violinist; Margery Jean Bailey, harpist; Doris Packer, reader, and the Girls' Glee club of Glendale High, directed by Mrs. Charles A. Parker. It was a program of which any club could be proud.

SEWER QUESTION COMES BEFORE NEW L. A. COUNCIL

City Manager Reeves Makes Announcement on Deferred Action

The Glendale sewer question will not be taken up by the Los Angeles council until after the new council takes its seat, next Monday, according to City Manager Reeves of Glendale. City Manager Reeves and Mayor Robinson attended the meeting of Los Angeles council Tuesday, and during the morning they were informed that this question, which is of vital interest to Glendale, will be taken up shortly after the new council takes hold.

The reason for this postponement is, Mr. Reeves states, that should the present council take definite action now in connection with the matter, the acts of this council would have no effect as concerns the body that will take the reins next Monday, notwithstanding the fact that practically all of the old councilmen will be re-seated.

Firecrackers Claim One Victim Already

Albert Henry Bolson, five-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. J. I. Bolson, 924 East Windsor road, was probably one of the first to meet with an accident, caused by the explosion of a firecracker. He was painfully injured about the eyes. After being treated by Dr. Laura Brown, he was resting easy. Albert wants to warn all little boys against playing with fireworks.

Endorses Chiropractic As Tuberculosis Cure

"Tuberculosis is caused by a drying of the cells in the lungs, and can be cured by renewing activity in these cells," stated Dr. C. M. Cagle, chiropractor, of 111 East Broadway, Glendale.

"It is one of the great discoveries of the age, I believe, that chiropractic treatments prove effective in the cure of tuberculosis. I have in mind a man who is a patient of mine at the present time. He contracted tuberculosis some years ago in the east, and was taken to the middle western states in order to take advantage of the dry climate there. He partially recovered, and came to Glendale to make his home.

"Through some oversight in his care, or due to overwork, he had a relapse about three months ago. It was by chance that I met him and told him of the way in which I had been cured of the same disease through chiropractic treatments. He became interested and agreed to allow me to give him similar treatments. He has been receiving these treatments for more than a month, and since beginning them has had no more hemorrhages, but has enjoyed restful sleep, and is feeling much improved.

"Chiropractic means the restoration of health through treatments by two hands, and an abundance of pure air, food and water. It is the simplest method, yet a science in itself, and although there has been prejudice against the chiropractor, this is gradually lifting since the enforcement of more stringent rulings and qualifications."

What Our Folks Are Doing

"OVER THE HILL" CLOSES AT THE GLENDALE

That "Over the Hill," within the next few months, will have been seen by more people than any other moving picture ever made, is obvious from the figures in the offices of William Fox, the producer. It closes tonight at the Glendale theatre. Already the picture has done the unprecedented thing of running a year uninterruptedly on Broadway; it has broken records for attendance in San Francisco, Los Angeles, Boston, Pittsburgh, Detroit and other large cities, and it has invaded London and Paris, where extraordinary runs are recorded. Central Europe, Italy and Russia have arranged for its reception, and the Orient has it booked.

Its singular lack of reliance upon local appeal makes it ideal for international consumption. While it is typical of small-town life in the Middle West, it is of a stratum of life common to all countries, and deals with emotion and experiences plain as day to every people that have family life and family troubles. The story of the sacrificial mother who supports a shiftless husband and six children, and rears the latter to adulthood only to be deserted as a result of having spoiled them, is an old one in the real life experiences of all people.

CONTRACTS FOR EIGHT STREETS ARE LET BY CITY

Contracts for eight streets were let by the Glendale city council Monday night. Peter L. Ferry was awarded the contract for portions of Granada, Highland, Kenneth, Glenview and Mariposa streets. All but Mariposa will be improved with paving, sidewalk, curbing and water pipe, while the latter street will have all but pipe.

The contract for the improvement of Wing, Maple and Windsor was awarded to W. J. Curren. This work will consist of 3-inch macadam, sidewalk, curbing and water pipe.

A letter was received from the Glendale Realty Board, asking that the signs at the points where Broadway and Brand intersect with San Fernando be left as they are and that the words "San Fernando road" be placed below each of these, and that another sign be placed at the east side of Brand at San Fernando bearing the words, "Glendale, Brand boulevard." It suggests that another be placed across Broadway at San Fernando reading "Broadway, Glendale." It was decided that a committee from the council meet with the Glendale Realty Board on Wednesday to see what can be done about this matter.

The matter of signs of all kinds being tacked to the posts of Glendale was brought up by Councilman W. A. Horn.

"This city is getting seedy," said Mr. Horn. "It's beginning to look like a hick town with every post littered with placards of all kinds. There are cards of dances, prize fights and everything else along that line, and the people who tack them up never attempt to take them down when the event is over. I believe something should be done to stop the tacking of signs all over Glendale."

"There is an ordinance that prohibits that kind of thing," said City Clerk Van Wie. "This ordinance states that anyone wishing to tack up signs shall first get a special permit from the council."

"Then I think that ordinance should be enforced," replied Councilman Horn.

It was decided that Mr. Horn should confer with Chief of Police Fraser to see what can be done about the matter.

ARRESTED ON ORDER OF KANSAS CITY POLICE

O. J. McCart, 525 West Salem, was arrested by Chief Fraser, Monday, according to the police records, which state that the charge against him was that he disposed of mortgaged property in Kansas City. The arrest was made on orders of the Kansas City police department, continue the records. McCart was placed in Jail No. 1.

PATROL SCOUTS EN ROUTE TO ARROWHEAD

Leave Early Today for New Headquarters in the Hills

Fifteen patrol leaders and senior patrol leaders of the Verdugo Hills district left Glendale early this morning for the Boy Scout Patrol Leaders' Conference camp near Lake Arrowhead.

These scouts, who are leaders in their respective troops, will be given four days of intensive training preparatory to the official opening of Camp Royl-Kent on June 30. They will be taught the rudiments for pitching the large army tents, ho wto pick out campsites, proper sanitation of camps; protection of wild life and conservation of trees will also be taught in addition to methods of building fires for cooking, where and how to hike, games, campfire programs, story telling and singing. These things will be taught the scouts by Scout Executive Harold Benner and Walter Wescott, who will be supervisor of scout activities and campfire programs.

Here is a list of the leaders who left this morning for Camp Royl-Kent:

Troop No 1, Glendale—Robert Sturgess, Otis Aleshire and Robert St. Clair.

Troop No. 2, Glendale—John Torrey, Carter Booth and Floyd Craft.

Troop No. 3, Glendale—Charles Bosserman, Glenn Cunningham, Robert Ayars and William Bogen.

Troop No. 4, Glendale — Cecil Pereira.

Troop No. 1, La Crescenta—Harold Swanson, Lawrence Potter, and James Hooper.

Troop No. 1, Eagle Rock—Harold Munyon.

The scouts were taken up to the camp by John P. Torrey, of 218 West California street; P. E. Maxwell, of 129 West Burchett, and Scout Executive Harold Benner.

"THE TEMPLE OF GOD" IS THE TOPIC OF REV. SWANEY

Taking as his text the 16th verse of the sixth chapter of Second Corinthians, Rev. Swaney at the Nazarene tent last night preached from the subject: "The Temple of God." The speaker referred to the follower of Christ as being His temple. Said he: "God is very jealous and zealous of His temple." He said that the word "temple" in some places in the Bible referred to the Christian church. He went on to say that the text referred to Christian living. Darwin would have us believe we came from a monkey. God formed man, sin deformed man. Jesus came for a purpose. He came to bestow God-likeness. God is polishing and trimming you and I for a special place.

Rev. Swaney referred to the feeding of the 5000 with the five loaves and two fishes. It is more blessed to give than to receive.

The temple was divinely dedicated. The dedication was done with prayer. Entire dedication was the next thought brought out by Rev. Swaney. Said he: "Is there a place in your heart or soul that is not entirely dedicated to the Lord? God won't move into or come into the heart until He has complete control."

The services are proving a real help and blessing to all who are attending them. The meetings will continue until July 15. Everybody is invited and urged to attend each service.

FENCING CHAMPION TO VISIT FRISCO

SAN FRANCISCO, June 27.—(United Press).—Giacinto Sanges, professional fencing champion of Italy and the United States, is expected to come to San Francisco some time in July to meet Pacific coast challengers for the American title.

Swimming Holes For National Guardsmen

BERKELEY, Calif., June 27.—(United Press).—The University of California baseball team is expected to leave this week, probably today, for the Hawaiian islands, where a series of games will be played. The Bruins have toured either the Orient or Islands for the past five or six years, and always with success. Coach Carl Zamloch expects to take 15 men with him on the trip.

NOW YOU CAN SWAP-SWAP-SWAP

The Glendale Daily Press Will Start a Special Swapper's Column in Its Want Ad Section on Saturday, June 23

Clean Out That Attic, Storeroom or Cellar!

Swap the Things You Don't Want! Get in Return the Things You Really Want and Need!

It's Fun to Swap!

Remember how, as a boy, you were always swapping a knife for a ball-bat; a fish-pole for a sling-shot; anything for everything?. Wasn't it fun?

Of course, swapping is fun. It always has been; it still is; it always will be. Thousands of people who read the GLENDALE DAILY PRESS are going to have fun swapping every day.

Every day their SWAP-ADS will be published. Hundreds of people will read each ad. All sorts of swaps will be made—phonographs for radio sets, pigs for chickens, chairs for tables, dogs for cats, automobiles for vacant lots, washing machines for lawn-mowers—any thing for everything.

You can share in the fun. Be a swapper! Start now. Decide at once what you want to swap and send in the SWAP-AD today.

Swapping Saves Money!

Usually it takes money to buy something new. But swapping is different.

The swapper needs no money. He simply takes the things he already has and does not use—things which may really be nuisances to him. By swapping these he gets in return the things he really wants. He spends no money. It's easy, isn't it?

You can be a swapper if you wish. Fill in the blank at the opposite lower corner of this page today.

TUESDAY CLUB CLOSES A YEAR OF HARD WORK

Officials Report to Membership at Big Banquet

By GERTRUDE GIBBS

The annual luncheon of the Tuesday Afternoon Club held yesterday in its new club house, brought together many women distinguished in clubdom, many of whom responded briefly to introductions with words of greeting and congratulation. The list included Mrs. Stevens, founder of the Santa Monica Women's Club; Mrs. Lorbeer, first vice-president of the Los Angeles District Federation; Mrs. Sidney Thomas Exley, Mrs. Russell J. Waters, Mrs. Florence Collins Porter, all past presidents of the District Federation of Women's Clubs; Mrs. Bingham of the Ventura District; Mrs. Charles S. McKelvey, district and state parliamentarian; Mrs. Meeker, president of the Hollywood Woman's Club, a group of Los Angeles newspaper women, which included Mrs. Myra Nye of the Times: Mrs. Ruth McClintock of the Express; Mrs. Jean Loughborough of the Examiner, and Mrs. Carolyn Walker of the Herald.

The curators of sections and chairmen of committees were introduced as they presented reports by Mrs. Campbell, who recited their contributions to the club furnishings with words of appreciation. Representatives of the daily papers of Glendale were also introduced, and the president referred with emotion to the loyal support she had received throughout the year from the members of the executive board, also paying a tribute to past presidents who have passed to the great beyond, and to those who are in distant places.

After adjournement to the auditorium at the close of the luncheon a program was presented that held the absorbed attention of a large audience. It opened with a salute to the flag led by Mrs. Lilian Dow Numbers were given as announced by graduates of the music and dramatic departments of Glendale High, and then the final reports of the year were presented by Mrs. Campbell and by the treasurer, Mrs. M. E. Plasterer.

The report of the treasurer showed a balance in the general fund of $2,312.87.

The report of the president, Mrs. Campbell, which it is hoped can be published in detail at a later date, included the report of the finance committee which showed cash on hand October, 1922, of $23,000, to which was added $50,000 from the Title Guarantee & Trust Company loan; $10,000 from life memberships; $3460 from initiation fees; earnings of the ways and means committee and non-section members, $5300; the total resources being $91,760. Against this has been spent for the club building, furnishings, improvement of grounds, etc., $93,417.34, leaving a deficit of $1657.34, which will be met out of the balance of $2312.87 in the general fund reported by Mrs. Plasterer, leaving the club free of debt, except for its $50,000 mortgage, thanks to the gifts of its sections, committees and individual members, and friends.

Other announcements of interest were the plans of the club to entertain world war veterans either the 12th or 19th of July, with refreshments and a sleight-of-hand entertainment to be put on by a Mr. Emerson. The public is to be admitted for 25c for adults and 15c for children.

Six evenings are to be given to the entertainment of the men of Glendale, the first of which will be some time next month.

Every Tuesday afternoon a card party will be given in the club house by non-section members under Mrs. Widmeyre, when "500" and bridge will be played. Musical programs will be given for those who do not play cards.

The first meeting of the newly installed executive board will be held Monday, July 16, at 1 p. m., and a meeting for curators only at 2 o'clock of the same day.

The amendment to the constitution under section 8. article 5, to permit those who have been members in good standing for two years to apply for life memberships at $250, was voted upon and carried.

An announcement held back by Mrs. Campbell for a final triumph concerned the membership of the club which now numbers 1001 with more applications in sight.

An important feature of the session was the announcement of curators and committee chairmen, the committee chairmen being:

Programs, Mrs. E. W. Hayward; accompanists, Mrs. H. E. Boyer and Mrs. Sawyer; adjuster, Mrs. M. E. Plasterer; civics, Mrs. W. P. MacMullin; décoration, Mrs. C. O. Pulliam; gifts and memorials, Mrs. Packer; house, Mrs. H. E. Bartlett, assisted by Mrs. J. R. White and Mrs. E. W. Sargent; local relief, Mrs. Eugene Gilliland; parliamentarian, Mrs. P. S. McNutt; general curator, Mrs. A. P. Findlay; patriotic, Mrs. S. C. Leppelman; philanthropy, Mrs. Thomas Hudson; reciprocity, Mrs. John R. White; ways and means, Mrs. A. H. Montgomery; year book, Mrs. C. W. Houston; federation secretary, Mrs. W. E. Evans; remembrance, Mrs. J. B. McClelland; press, Mrs. J. T. Crampton; historian, Mrs. C. J. Newcomb.

New sections were anounced, viz., "Americanization," which will be combined with legislative; "domestic science" and "fine arts."

Section curators were named as follows:

Arts and crafts No. 1, Mrs. H. A. McPherson; No. 2, Mrs. Harry James; drama, Mrs. Max Green; literary, Mrs. H. C. Wilcox; maids and young matrons, Mrs. C. J. Putman; music, Mrs. Warren Roberts; parliamentary law, Mrs. C. A. Brandstater; Shakespeare, Mrs. Walter Jones; domestic science, Mrs. P. G. Widmeyre; fine arts, Mrs. Roy Ballagh. Curators for the Americanization section and for Bible section have not been chosen nor has the chairman of courtesy.

BUSINESS WOMEN GATHER FOR BIG DINNER AT MAE'S

Sixty-five Assemble and Hear Excellent Program of Music

A delightful dinner and party was enjoyed by members of the Glendale Business and Professional Women's club and their friends at the Harriet Mae tea room last night when places were laid for 66.

Preceding the first course, which was served at 6:30 o'clock, Mayor Spencer Robinson and Mrs. Virginia Freeman led in the singing of America, which was followed by solo numbers by Mayor Robinson, "Believe Me If All Those Endearing Young Charms," "Beautiful Isle of Somewhere," and "Auld Lang Syne," the guests joining in the chorus of the last number. Mrs. Virginia Freeman then sang "The Years at the Spring," and "The Nightingale," both numbers receiving hearty applause.

Following the dinner Miss Alta Arnold favored the guests with two solos, "Not Like Other Girls," (Hopkins), and "An Irish Love Song." J. A. Myers, with Mrs. Gertrude Champlain at the piano, sang "The Tears of God," and "My Bamboo Baby." He then led the company in singing of such old time songs as "Pack Up Your Troubles in Your Old Kit Bag," "Long, Long Trail," and "The Star Spangled Banner," gaining an enthusiastic response.

Immediately following, students from the Keller school presented most charming numbers, including a "Balloon Dance," by Anne Elizabeth Wilkinson, "Oriental Dance" by Catherine Sonntag, "Spring Dance" by Louise Brown, and readings, including "Chums," and "Ain't Got Nothin'" by Katherine Bruner. Glen Hurd then rendered violin selections by Kreisler and was encored.

Miss Emily Gibbs, president of the club, gave a short talk at the close of the entertainment, thanking the entertainment committee for the splendid program provided. Miss Gibbs won the popular approval by suggesting that the Business and Professional Women's club interest itself in forming an auxiliary among the business men stating that not a little of the evening's enjoyment was due to the presence of the men folk, and that as the next social affair planned would in all probability be a picnic, an invitation to the gentlemen would be in order.

MRS. CAMPBELL ENTERTAINS AT DINNER

Mrs. Daniel Campbell entertained last night Mr. and Mrs. Edward Silent of Los Angeles, Mrs. Dobbs, sister of Mrs. Silent of Dublin, Ireland, who has been here for six weeks and is leaving Saturday for her home; Miss D. Mrs. Dobbs, who was the guest of honor, will visit Mrs. Campbell's relatives in the north of Ireland and tell them of her home here.

F. W. JAMES' DRIVE FROM DETROIT IN THREE WEEKS

F. W. James, wife and child, arrived in Glendale Saturday from Detroit, Mich., after a delightful journey of three weeks in a Ford. They found the roads very good until Kansas was reached and then they had to wait a few days for the mud to settle. Auto camps were good all the way. East of Kansas City all were free, but west of there they had to pay. Mr James said he averaged 40 miles an hour over most of the Missouri roads. The prices for eatables were found to be very reasonable and 30 cents was the average price paid per gallon for gasoline. He paid 26 cents in Detroit when he left there and as high as 35 cents and 40 cents at a few places along the way.

Mr. James was in the printing and stationery business in Detroit and is considering a similar business, though probably in stationery only. He and his wife are already "sold" on Glendale and are determined to locate here. They are now living at 1207 South Maryland avenue.

DR. FAREED TALKS ON THOUGHT DYNAMICS

In Dr. Fareed's talk on "The Dynamics of Thought," he said that thought is the discoverer of relations between those things which we contact by the senses. The mind is akin to a mine—the metal is there but must be developed before it can be used. Nothing is at a standstill. Just as a field left to itself will grow weeds, so a mind not cultivated must do something and becomes negative or allows thoughts to occupy it, which brings no results. In order to accomplish something or reap a crop, the mind must be cleared of the various forms of hinderances that have grown there. He asked: "Why are there so few minds that are mines?" Why so few, comparatively, that are accomplishing the worth-while things in the world? Because the great majority of people have their minds full of useless or destructive thoughts, or just let thoughts pass through their minds.

Conscious auto-suggestion faithfully practiced will help much, he said. Take a positive affirmation like this—"My thinking is clearer, my mind is keener, and my thoughts are better day by day." Say it to yourself every morning for a month, trying to realize its meaning as you say it, and see if you do not notice a helpful change beginning to come in your ability to use your thoughts.

Any power or faculty not exercised will deteriorate. The neglect to develop the mind is one of the greatest sins.

Jesus found in Nature his fitting illustrations because he lived so close to Nature and was absolute master of His thoughts.

The following practice for mind culture was recommended by Dr. Fareed: "Read an inspiring selection, meditate on the content; then write it out in your own words. Discipline your mind to dwell on the beauties of God in Nature. Center your interest on the beautiful and it will beget more beauties."

JUVENILE MUSIC CLUB HOLD FINAL PROGRAM

Their last program of the season was given by members of the Juvenile Music club over radio KFI, Saturday evening.

In addition to the program as given in Saturday's paper, the club members were assisted by Mrs. Fittinger and her two little daughters, Corrine and Mary Ellen, a trio of artists who have lately come to Glendale to live, and are planning a vaudeville tour for the summer months. With Mrs. Fittinger at the piano, Miss Corrine, the violinist, played "The Spanish Dance," and two movements from "Scene de Ballet" (Dvorak), and little Mary Ellen whistled, "Can't You Hear Me Calling?" Mrs. W. A. Kulp has served as "mother" to these young artists since their organization in mid-winter, and the credit for their splendid progress belongs to Mrs. Grace Jackson and the other music teachers whom she has been able to interest in this work.

Mrs. Pearl G. Curran entertained the club at the last meeting, when the following officers were installed by Mrs. Mattison B. Jones, president of the senior club: President Susie Smith; vice president, Wilma Kulp; secretary, Marguerite Chappell; corresponding secretary Eloise Knaus; treasurer, Margaret Hellman.

EVANGELIST IN TALK ON LORD'S PRAYER

Matthew 6:10, was the text from which Rev. Swaney preached at the Nazarene evangelistic tent, Monday night. The verse reads: "Thy kingdom come, thy will be done in earth as it is in heaven."

Rev. Swaney said in part:

"Some people think that in the 6th chapter of Matthew is the Lord's prayer, but the real Lord's prayer is in the 17th chapter of John. That in Matthew is only a model prayer. Jesus taught people to say, 'Our Father.'

"There are several things we should notice here. Men can't pray or call God their father until they can call other men their brothers. Unless the devil is beat out of his own, he'll get the person who commits sin. A lady from Alaska came to this country to see how people went to church. She was disappointed when she saw how indifferent people were.

"Jesus was the leper's friend and also the friend of the children, the blind and the lame.

"People are lost because they won't accept Christ. It is God's will that people should be saved. When the will of God is done on earth as it is in heaven, there will be no dividing line. If we want heaven here on earth, we can have it.

"People don't want to be saved because they sin and love darkness rather than light. 1st Thess. 4:3, reads: 'This is the will of God, even your sanctification.'"

In conclusion, Rev. Swaney said that Jesus wills that His children be with Him where He is. The man who expects to see God in heaven will get to the place down here where he will be given over to the whole will of God.

Advertising Plus Business—Prosperity

Brisk business in furniture sales is due to the establishing of so many new homes in Glendale, according to the statement made by J. L. Bowers of the Hunt & Bowers Furniture Co., 117 South Brand boulevard.

"We are experiencing a very promising trade," he said. "Our patrons will find a nice line of refrigerators in our stock. These are of the latest improved models, porcelain lined and sanitary.

"We recognize the value of advertising placed in the Glendale Daily Press. It has served to liven our business to a great extent. The Saturday shopping section is a great spur to business, and I think will help to influence the furniture dealers to close their stores on Saturday afternoons during July and August. As for our store, we are willing to do whatever the others do."

EDITORIALS BY THE PEOPLE

Glendale, Calif.,
June 26, 1923.

Dear Mr. Watson:

Here is a story I heard yesterday, which as an ex-newspaper man, I think worthy of being published.

At the Los Feliz street railroad crossing yesterday a group of men were discussing in loud tones the proposed new depot location. One man stated that the chamber of commerce committee which had charge of the investigation of this affair could be counted on by its recommendations to safeguard the people's interests.

A horse hitched in front of the Bentley Lumber Yards adjoining overheard this remark and before assistance could be given the unfortunate animal it had laughed itself to death.

When the representative of this paper arrived the body of the horse had evidently been removed.

This is the first time in the history of Glendale that a horse has been known to laugh itself to death.

Yours truly,
W. T. JEFFERSON.

CROSSLAND'S NEW POLICY IS APPROVED

Firm Defies Precedent and Discontinues Trade Commission

"We have had many customers commend our new policy which we announced a week ago," stated R. A. Crossland of the Crossland Wall Paper company, 227 East Broadway.

"At that time we announced that the prevailing policy of allowing a commission of from 33 1-3 to 50 per cent to the paper hanger would no longer be in effect in our store. Due to the discontinuation of this policy, we have been able to reduce the price on all wall paper in our stock on a corresponding scale, and have been rewarded by hearing words of commendation from all of our customers.

"It was formerly the policy for the paper hanger to direct his customer to buy his wall paper at a certain store, which the customer would do. Then after the job had been completed, the paper hanger could come to that store and collect a commission for having told the customer to buy his paper at that particular store.

"For some time we have complied with this policy, though doing so under protest, because we felt that it was not a just deal to the individual who purchased the wall paper, and besides paying for the hanging of the paper, paid the paper hanger's commission also, as it was included in the price of the paper.

"Now, by discontinuing this policy, we intend to deal directly with the public and the public can deal directly with us. We also employ a crew of capable paper hangers to do the work for our own customers.

"The plan of giving a commission to the paper hanger originated some years ago, when the dealer, finding business slack, offered a commission, usually of 10 per cent to the paper hanger, who would carry his book of samples with him and do his ordering from that particular firm. This naturally developed to the point where the dealer, learning of a particularly active paper hanger, would offer a high commission to him, if he would work for him, and so on, until the commissions offered have come to average between 33 1-3 and 50 per cent, and some dealers have even allowed a commission when the paper hanger did not carry one of his sample books with him, but merely directed the customer to the store."

At last Janet's aunt suggested to her niece that she might sometimes let her father go out alone.

VETERANS' BUREAU VAST BUSINESS CONCERN

K. J. Scudder, manager of the Los Angeles subdistrict of the U. S. Veterans' bureau, gives the following resume of recent work of the bureau:

"We are a branch of an enormous business concern, dealing with the most precious of commodities—the destinies of men. It is our responsibility to advise and supervise the successful training of men injured in the U. S. government service. It is our responsibility to train them so that they may pursue a gainful occupation. Most of these men, beneficiaries of the bureau, are unable to pursue their pre-war occupation. Our work is to start them in a new job in which their disability would be no handicap. To do this we have, and conduct, a regular business office.

"We provide government insurance to the men at actual cost. We have an efficient corps of dentists and physicians to care for their physical ills. We have a social service department which relieves their mental worries. We have a cooperation staff whose duty it is to see that nothing is left undone in prosecuting the case of a claimant against the government. Our rehabilitation staff is composed of picked men, students of human nature and psychology, who advise and consult with the men regarding their training and subsequent rehabilitation. Our whole force is attuned like a perfectly trained football team, every one functioning properly and hitting the line of duty as one man.

"Here are a few excellent examples of what can be accomplished by men taking advantage of the opportunity the government offers for training:

"Ralph Palmer Borst: Student at the college of commerce, University of California, Southern Branch. Elected to membership in California Academy of Social Science, assistant to the chair on foreign relations, assistant in the department of international law, teaching fellow in American government and assistant to the department of economics.

"Thurston H. Ross: To be rehabilitated as instructor of economics. Tendered assistant professorship at the University of California, Southern Branch, to teach economics and accounting. Through exceptional merit was given the degree of master of business science which has been given to only one other west of the Rockies. This degree was first given by Harvard and Princeton in 1908 and is a most coveted honor. Prior to his army service, Ross was a student of no earning capacity.

"Dova W. Adamson: Shortly to receive master's degree at University of Southern California. Chosen to be principle of high school at Simi, Calif. Prior to entrance into service was employed at Dupont Powder company at nominal salary.

"LeRoy Dawson: President of the junior class for the past year. Elected president of the student body for the coming year. Commander of Victory Post No. 54, commander of Southern California chapter, Rainbow division, assistant national vice president Rainbow division. Lost one eye, nose and several ribs. Reconstructed by plastic surgery, rib being used to manufacture new nose. Has record of surviving more major operations than any other veteran of the U. S. forces. It has been read in the Congressional Record that he is the most successfully wounded veteran of the war. He is among the most brilliant of all the students in the university.

"Harold M. Hemmock: Assistant librarian in law school. Leads senior class in scholastic work. Invited to membership in honorary legal fraternity. Offered position on faculty at University of Arizona on graduation.

"Francis C. Jones: Editor-in-chief law school annual book.

"Buron S. Fitts: Deputy district attorney. Recently appointed chief trial deputy. Past department commander of America Legion.

"Albert E. Lucas: Deputy city prosecutor.

"Following are a few figures concerning the mechanical operation of our business: During the month of May an average of 392 men per day called at the bureau on business. We received over 70 letters per day. We sent 104 letters per day. We received 20 applications for reinstatement of insurance in the sum of $172,000. We received applications for nine conversions of insurance in the sum of $37,000. We received a total of 558 renewal premiums in the sum of $5,940. We made revolving fund loans to 56 men in the sum of $2,120.80. Seventy-four investigations were made by the social service department on behalf of ex-service men's families."

Jack Dempsey Starts Active Training for Title Bout in Montana with Tom Gibbons

They sat on the parlor sofa. "What would you do if I turned you down?" she asked shyly. The man looked straight ahead, but said nothing. After a few moments of silence she nudged him with her elbow and said:

"Didn't you hear my question?"

He looked around much surprised.

"I beg your pardon," he replied. "I thought you were addressing the gas."

VAUDEVILLE AND FINE FILM AT THE T. D. & L.

Besides the usual good vaudeville at the T. D. & L. Thursday, "Trifling With Honor," the Universal-Jewel production comes to the T. D. & L. theater for the day.

In the first place, this is a corking good picture. Secondly, it has been perfectly cast, with the result that a photoplay, not only human but extremely interesting and amusing, has been produced. There is pathos, there is comedy, and never a dull moment.

The Gas Pipe Kid is a pretty tough bird, to use the vernacular of his associates. He is released from prison, only to commit another offense the very day he gets out, but escapes punishment by fleeing with money provided by the girl who has been waiting for him.

Five years later we see him as a prize baseball player. He is known as Bat Shugrue and is the idol of all the young hopefuls who watch his every move from the bleachers. One of the loudest rooters is the small brother of the girl. This part is admirably played by Buddy Messinger. Bat has completely forgotten his obligation to the girl and engages in wild parties with wilder women, and all in all is a pretty despicable character.

Shans of Burma Give Weird Dance By Torchlight

[By Associated Press]

TAUNGGYI, Burma, June 27.—The recent inauguration of the Federated Shan States was marked by a remarkable series of exhibition dances. These included tribal dances in which 24 of the hill tribes of Burma participated, as well as the famous animal and bird dances of the Shans.

The entertainment took place in a specially built arena with over 5,000 spectators in attendance. Brilliant and unusual lighting was a feature of the occasion. The thoroughfares leading to the arena were lined with huge lamps in the shape of lotus blossoms. The governor, Sir Harcourt Butler, was escorted to his place by 200 torch bearers, carrying torches ten feet long and one foot thick, made of bamboo and pine chips.

In the opening parade, some of the torches used were as much as 50 feet in height and required 50 or 60 men to carry them. Each torch was followed by several musicians who beat tom-toms and played other weird instruments.

Of the tribal dances those of the Padaungs proved the most popular. The Padaungs are noted for the enormous rings they wear. The brass rings worn about the neck, arms and legs of one woman often weigh over 50 pounds. Those of the neck, amounting to about 15 pounds, are considered the most important. Their purpose is to elongate the neck. A girl starts wearing such rings from childhood; as the neck stretches, additional rings are added. The woman who has the longest neck is considered the most beautiful and the most to be desired as a wife.

The Shans in their dances disguised themselves as animals and birds. Buffaloes, elephants, tigers, bears and cocks were among those represented. A small dog which happened to stray into the arena was so frightened by one of the tigers that he hid his tail between his legs and awaited in terror the end which he thought was about to come.

The Shan States, rich in agricultural and mineral products, are in the northeastern part of Burma.

He was one of the youngest recruits who ever graced the army, and his voice was in the process of changing. Into the company barber shop he drifted, and, in tones that were at one moment a promising base and at the next a feeble treble, demanded a haircut.

"Hey!" ejaculated the bewildered barber, looking confusedly about him. "One at a time, please; one at a time."

When a meek man marries a strenuous woman he soon discovers that he is outclassed.

Truths in Epigram

There is moderation even in excess.—Disraeli.

Every man feels instinctively that all the beautiful sentiments in the world weigh less than a single lovely action.—Lowell.

Cast thy bread upon the waters: for thou shalt find it after many days—Old Testament.

His food was glory, which was poison to his mind and peril to his body.—Taylor.

BRYAN

Mr. Bryan objects to ridicule. He wants to be taken seriously. He defends his position with respect to evolution by saying that many thousands of good people believe with him. True enough, they do. Nobody objects to their beliefs. Many thousands of good people used to believe the world was flat. But it was round, nevertheless.

As long as Mr. Bryan believes what he says he believes, there can be no objection. Everybody in this world is entitled to believe what he wishes. There is no objection to a personal belief in the non-contagion of smallpox, so far as the individual is concerned. But when that non-belief seeks to fasten itself upon officials and authorities and health boards and help smallpox run riot, there is great objection to be made, for the non-believer is seeking to harm the human race, no matter what he believes himself. He is a missionary for evil and death, no matter how well meaning he may be.

Mr. Bryan's whole attitude from the beginning has been founded upon a wrong assumption, that man was descended from the monkey. Nobody ever made any such claim. A good many persons may seem to be not much improvement upon the monkey. But Mr. Bryan as usual was superficial. He has not treated with the rules and doctrines of evolution at all honestly. Mr. Bryan makes the same old objection that was made in the time of Darwin and in almost the same words. He endeavors to destroy a scientific truth with ridicule himself. And then he objects to being ridiculed.

Mr. Bryan would gag the speech and minds of thinking people, through arbitrary direction as to what they shall believe and how. He would destroy scientific progress, as men like him have sought in the past to destroy it. He would put us back thousands of years in the ages of legend, fable, mist, myth and the like. He would limit the seeking after the real truths of life and being, and send the thought of young men backward instead of forward.

Science says: "Let us discover what the truth is and apply it." Mr. Bryan says: "This is the truth and let us prove why it is the truth." That is not the spirit of the real educator. Mr. Bryan's contentions and beliefs, which he would fasten upon as many people as he can, disregard every discovery of science with respect to the development of the human race and of mankind. That is why there is and should be everlasting objection and protest and struggle against him and his beliefs. For to follow him would be to set our faces against the history and progress of the world.

SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA

With cities growing rapidly on every side, with the population of its largest city increasing by leaps and bounds, with every train bringing its load of passengers, many of whom look to California as the land of heart's desire, the question is asked: "Can this remarkable growth continue? Will the increase of population sustain the great cities being builded? What is to be the end of it all?"

The end of it all will doubtless be, barring a national disaster or a war of the worlds, that within a few decades the country from the mountains to the sea will be all city. Millions of people in the United States with a fair sum in resources, will desire to live in a mild and equable climate.

That will make a population to be fed, housed, amused and cared for. To sustain this population will take another large number of people, as producers and caterers to the needs of people who will live their lives here.

And then there is a vast and fertile country in California that has as yet been but scratched. We shall have more farmers, orchardists, vineyardists, stock raisers, manufacturers. And with a harbor to receive and dispatch shipping to and from all parts of the world, who shall say how extensive shall be the growth of the next ten or twenty years.

There need be no concern as to the solidity and stability of the growth of Southern California. It is not at all a forced growth. It is the growth that comes from the natural desire of millions of people to live in a comfortable climate, among surpassing natural landscapes, and with unexcelled opportunity. Fun has been poked at Southern California often in the past. But that time is past. The man from the east or the north or the south may exclaim, protest, wonder and be surprised. But he withholds his fun-making. And eventually he comes here and falls in with the procession.

So rapid has been the growth of the Southland that even the most optimistic citizens of this rapidly growing section have been astounded. Every dream expressed has been realized. Now, it is believed that Los Angeles will reach the one million mark in population before the end of the year. It is difficult to comprehend the tremendous progress which has been made. It has come so suddenly, yet so orderly. Great sections have sprung into being almost over night. The end is not in sight. The tourist travel westward is greater than ever before. Thousands of these people will never return to the east. They will tear their return railroad tickets up, establish homes here, get into business and be contented. And thousands of western people will go east, have their visit and use the return tickets to get back to the land of sunshine, fruit and flowers.

We often wonder what has become of all the men who were going to make millions out of inventions they once patented.

LIQUOR AND SHIPS

The prohibition amendment brings us face to face with many perplexing questions. One of them has arisen at the port of New York where British ships have brought in supplies of liquor, for the use of passengers on their return voyage. The liquor is imported within the three-mile limit, and into a city of the United States, although it is sealed by the British customs, and ostensibly not to be used for the violation of the prohibition law.

But it is urged that the ships be boarded and the liquor seized under the laws and rulings as laid down by the courts and the treasury department. The ship of a country has usually been considered a part of the country itself, and whether a British ship lying in New York harbor is British or America will have to be determined.

Our British cousins will not at all agree with us if we seek to take a part of their stock in trade, because of an American law regarding intoxicants.

After all, it proves the contention often made that it is difficult for any country in these days to live and legislate without regard for other countries. It looks as if we were in for another international squall.

It takes a smart woman to listen when she can't talk.

Tantrums and Heartbreaks

By ESTELLE LAWTON LINDSEY

The world is cluttered with people who can't tell the difference between a torpid liver and a broken heart. They make up the bulk of most armies that stand round-time wailing posts of the world.

Estelle Lawton Lindsey

But it takes women to proclaim to the spheres that every balked inclination "nearly killed me." When I see the blows that Fate does send to some and when I watch the magnificent courage that sustains them as they take the bludgeon standing I feel like opening a class in comparative values and trying to teach women the triviality of many of the setbacks over which they break their spirits.

This morning I was talking to a furious mother whose only daughter had run off and been married. With tears billowing down her face she shook her head declaring: "The blow nearly killed me. It was so unnecessary."

"What's the matter with the chap?" I inquired.

"Matter—matter? There's nothing the matter with him. But to think that my only child would run off and marry without letting me know. I thought she had been better taught."

When breath failed her I took her in hand.

"Madam," I began, "there is nothing in the situation to kill you or nearly kill you. Girls are romantic and in their opinion romance takes precedence over maternal vanity. Your heart is fully intact and I'll wager your appetite is up to par. If you had a genuine sorrow you'd soon be ashamed to behave as you are behaving because your daughter offended you."

Then I told her two stories that had come to my notice during the past week. One of a girl who had waited and loved for six years with all her hopes and all her faith centered on a man who promised and promised to marry her—but who never did. And then one day he walked calmly away with her best friend and married her.

"That woman is 29 now and she will not be able to reorient herself to life. I call that genuine sorrow."

The woman snorted and sat down a bit harder in her chair.

"Well, lots of girls have married after they were 29," she proclaimed defiantly.

"True, but nobody can give back stolen years nor betrayed faith."

Then I told her the second story and winced as I told it. It is that of a tall young man with magnificent eyes, a noble brow, but afflicted with a facial deformity that makes him repellent. Added to this is a defect of speech that renders him practically dumb. He is lonely beyond telling, for he has a loving heart and only the most meager intellectual resources. A hard worker he comes home year after year to a desolate room and always with that tremendous heart hunger. He is less than 25 and that long lonely road stretches endlessly before him.

"Think of those people and then compare your supposed sorrow" I advised, "and then study the difference between a damaged heart and a first-class tantrum."

The lady dried her eyes and rose stiffly. Clearly I was entered on her books as a person with no sympathy and little appreciation of a "mother's sorrows."

Perhaps I am. Mother's sorrows are much like hair tonic. The market is so full of them that it takes an expert to decide between the genuine and the spurious.

But when Fate decides to hand any son of earth a genuine sorrow the most flippant and undiscriminating must acknowledge its validity.

THE RIGHT WORD

"ONLY"

(Find the error in this article)

The word only is frequently not placed in its proper position.

An example of such faulty expression is the following: I only want one. Only should be placed before one, the following correct arrangement being the result: I want only one.

Only restricts the meaning of a sentence in respect to a word or a group of words. Therefore, if only is not properly placed the expressed meaning may be different from that which was intended.

Note the differences in meaning in the following sentences:

Today Harry said he would give us only the books.

Today Harry said he would give only us the books.

Today Harry said he would only give us the books.

Today Harry only said he would give us the books.

Today only Harry said he would give us the books.

Only today Harry said he would give us the books.

THE LISTENING POST

By Clarence W. Foley

JAMES W. FOLEY

If you were asked what should be the first consideration of mankind, you might make any one of a number of answers.

Depending on your point of view.

For we differ as to important things in life.

* * *

The philosopher thinks the important thing in life is a truth.

The boy on the way to the circus may think it is a toy balloon.

The movie star thinks it is publicity.

The roadburner thinks it is a new car.

Each to his taste.

* * *

Some one has said that variety is the spice of life.

Not to make it all spice and no nourishment or nutriment.

But to make it interesting.

Dull life is hopeless.

Who would be a slug on a sill?

No cares or troubles or responsibilities.

But no happinesses either.

* * *

So we might differ as to what should be the first consideration of mankind.

Some might say education.

Some might say right spiritual guidance.

Some might say industry.

And there might be a little of truth in it all.

* * *

But it is likely that after consideration and reflection, many of us would agree that the first consideration of mankind should be the health of human beings.

That they should be sturdy, erect, free from disease, well fed and strong.

Health is after all the cornerstone upon which the human being builds most.

Health is humanity's greatest asset.

Not much could be done in the way of development, with a population rickety, germ-ridden, feverish, headachy, limping, blind and unfit.

Not many railroads would be builded or deserts irrigated, or fields plowed.

* * *

Upon health we can build nations with their cities.

Factories with their humming machines and smoking chimneys or whirling dynamos.

Railroads for the transportation of products.

And health is at the foundation of all effort and industry.

And health is, most of all, at the very foundation of free and fine spirit.

Health is the best assurance of a high moral standard.

* * *

For unfit minds and bodies, seeking survival, too often seek survival by means of crime.

The sound mind in the sound body usually go together.

And while there are sound minds in unsound bodies, their usefulness is greatly limited.

* * *

Health means usefulness.

It means happiness.

It means painlessness.

It means clear vision.

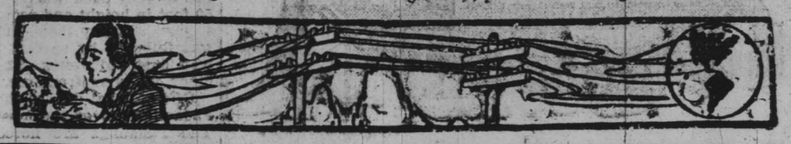
It means sturdy arms and legs.

It means willingness to labor.

And as these are the things making for the best in civilization, so we need health to have them and insure them.

* * *

Nations have gone to decay as the health of individuals began to fail, through sluggishness, gluttony, perversion or neglect.



Songs of the Poets

An Old Tune (After Gerard de Nerval)—Andrew Lang

There is an air for which I would discown
Mozart's, Rossini's, Weber's melodies—
A sweet sad air that languishes and sighs,
And keeps its secret charm for me alone.

Whene'er I hear that music vague and old,
Two hundreds years are mist that rolls away;
The thirteenth Louis reigns, and I behold
A green land golden in the dying day.

An old red castle, strong with stony towers,
And windows gay with many-colored glass;
Wide plains, and rivers flowing among flowers,
That bathe the castle basement as they pass.

In antique weed, with dark eyes and gold hair,
A lady looks forth from her window high;
It may be that I knew and found her fair,
In some forgotten life, long time gone by.

SELLING THE CONSTITUTION

By DR. FRANK CRANE

IT IS the business of the United States Government to sell the Constitution to its citizens. It is the duty of every school teacher to sell the Constitution of the United States to the pupils. It is the business of all citizens to sell the Constitution to incoming foreigners.

The word sell is used in this connection in that sense which it has recently taken in the business world. We are said to "sell" an idea to a man when we persuade him of its value.

The Institute of Public Service, in a recent pamphlet has given interesting points on this matter, from which I condense the following:

Seventeen states at present have passed laws which compel private and public schools to teach our Constitution in planned lessons like reading, writing, geography and current topics.

The seventeen laws do not merely advise, they require and command. Teaching the Constitution is not optional but mandatory. Seventeen other legislatures are now considering it.

These seventeen laws all read about the same because they all originated in the same place. The National Security League, 17 East 49th street, New York city. If you will write to this address and ask Etta V. Leighton, the secretary, about it, she will give you full information.

The pamphlet of the Institute points out that the Constitution is Democracy's Book of Rules. You cannot play any game unless all the players keep the rules or agree to change them. You can no more play Democracy without obeying the rules than you can play marbles or baseball without rules.

The Constitution can be changed. All you have to do is to persuade the majority of the voters and make the change according to the method provided. It has already been amended nineteen times, four times in the last ten years.

The Constitution is your best insurance policy. It pledges 110,000,000 people to protect your rights and maintain that order without which neither business nor society can exist.

The Constitution not only means what it said, but it means what its words may mean in 1923. To determine this it provides an umpire, the United States Supreme court. Whoever, for any reason, throws bricks at the umpire stops the game.

The Constitution is not appreciated nor understood by many highly educated Americans.

The Constitution is being constantly violated. Legislatures keep on passing laws which, although well meant, are not in accordance with the Constitution. Reformers, labor unions, trust and all other kind of groups frequently engage in movements intended to benefit their fellowmen, but which are impossible because they conflict with the Constitution. It is as necessary to do a good thing in the right way as it is to have the disposition to do it at all.

The Constitution can only be changed by voting. Whoever proposes to change it by violence is an enemy to his country and should properly be punished.

The thirty-one words with which our Constitution begins should be learned by heart by every boy and girl in America.

"To form a more perfect union, establish justice, ensure domestic tranquility, provide for the common defense, promote the general welfare and secure the blessings of liberty to ourselves and our posterity."

(Copyright, 1923, by Dr. Frank Crane)

EASTERN POINT OF VIEW

PITIFUL PROSPECT

[Spokane Spokesman-Review]

It seems incredible that the American people could deliberately choose Ford for President of the United States, a man so lacking in the qualifications that the people, since the days of Washington, have regarded as essential. He is lacking in education, in knowledge of American history, in preparation, in experience, in understanding of public affars.

With the few exceptions the twenty-eight Presidents have been poor men. No man of vast and swollen fortune has ever occupied the White House. Washington was the nearest approximation to a President of wealth, but his total estate was not a thousandth part of Ford's gigantic fortune.

Ford's intellectual limitations were pitifully revealed in his unsuccessful libel suit against the Chicago Tribune. If, by any strange prank of fantastic political fortune, he should become a candidate, the opposition would bring out the truth with pitiless thoroughness.

WHAT ABOUT LODGING?

[Brooklyn Chronicle]

Wanted—Place to board five goldfish for the summer. Address "M. H." Chronicle Office."

FUTILE REFERENDUM

[Springfield Republican]

Setting the referendum in motion against the gasoline tax would have the effect of preventing its collection for a year and a half, but the chances are that the opponents of the tax are in error if they believe that the voters would defeat it at the polls. The number of voters who do not own cars is still larger than the number of those who do. It would not be difficult to convince substantially all who are still in the pedestrian class that a two-cent tax is neither wrong in principle nor oppressive in practice. There are in addition many car owners who concede the justice of making them contribute to the maintenance of the highways, the rising expense of which is due to the immense motor traffic. A referendum—should it be held—would be a waste of the voters' time and the commonwealth's money.

PROHIBIT IT, OF COURSE

[Philadelphia Inquirer]

Complaining because people in England still make fun of prohibition, Lady Astor says, "It has got to stop." But how is Lady Astor going to stop it? Freedom to say what he likes is one of the Englishman's most cherished privileges.

CHATS ON SCIENCE

DR. EDWIN E. SLOSSON

THE SUCCESS OF A FAILURE

"No," said the lumber dealer, "your boy is good for nothing in my business. In fact, he is the most miserable failure I have even seen and will never amount to anything."

"Well," replied the disappointed father, "since Emil is too stupid to make a living in lumber I suppose I might as well let him go to college as he wants to."

So Emil Fischer went to Bonn university to study chemistry. Here he was recognized as one of the most brilliant and industrious students in the laboratory and by the time he was 23 he had discovered a key that unlocked one of the most mysterious processes of life. This key was a coal-tar compound known to chemists as "phenyl hydrazine." It was both fortunate and fatal to Fischer. It made him one of the most famous chemists in the world and it brought his disease and death. For the fumes of it are poisonous and constant working with it ruined his health.

But nothing could impair his energy or dampen his ardor. For after he got free from the lumber business and started on his own track, he pursued it for 45 years without interruption or diversion. As one of his colleagues said at the time of his death in 1919:

"A life is ended in which there was no failure, no let-up in restless activity, no long groping about for something to accomplish. After one quick, clear vision of the goal the path led straight to its accomplishment, a chain of brilliant success."

How Professor Fischer himself looked at his life work is shown by these words:

"Still more enticing to some, among whom I include myself, is the hope to climb up out of the valleys to those passes seen afar off, which lead to vast and as yet unexplored countries."

The unexplored country that he had in view and ventured in was no less than the formative functions of vegetable and animal life. With the aid of phenyl hydrazine he was able to solve the secret of sugar. Not content with finding out how sugar may be made by the plant he learned to make it himself. He found it possible to produce in the laboratory many more kinds of sugar than can be discovered in nature. Finally, he worked out a process by which he could start with plain coal and water and build up a series of edible sugars.

Then Fischer tackled a still more difficult problem in nutrition, the constitution of the proteins. These form an essential part of our food since they contain the nitrogen necessary to all life. It used to be thought that the proteins, whether of vegetable origin, like the gluten of wheat, or of animal origin, like the casein of milk, were much alike and that it made little difference which of the many we got in our food. But Fischer showed that a protein molecule was made up of a long chain of carbon and nitrogen compounds and that the links were of very different kinds. Finally, he made a sort of artificial protein, what might be called a laboratory beefsteak, but whether it was good to eat or not could not be determined since there was so little of it and it cost so much. He spent $250 for the material alone, to say nothing of his time, in constructing this compound, so, as he said, "it has not yet made its appearance on the dining table."

There is little prospect that the food of the future will come from the laboratory instead of the field. Even a professor of chemistry cannot live as cheaply as a cornstalk. But the work of Fischer on the sugars and proteins has already been of immense value to the world in leading to the newer knowledge of nutrition which is already being applied to the feeding of stock and people.

As Sir Henry Roscoe, professor of chemistry at Manchester, said of Fischer when he was awarded the Faraday medal: "His name has the sweetest of tastes in the mouth of every chemist." Fischer conquered for chemistry a field formerly claimed by biology. He brought within the reach of experimentation what had been regarded as the exclusive province of vital processes.

OUR CHILDREN

By ANGELO PATRI

"And That Teaches Us"

It was story time and auntie was reading those delectable tales for children, "Aesop's Fables."

"And the greedy dog snapped at his image in the water and lost the piece of meat he was carrying."

"O-o-o-o," sighed Tad.

"And that teaches us, Tad, that we must not be greedy. We must be satisfied with—"

"Read next one, Aunt Carrie," said Tad, fingers impatiently twitching the corners of the page, "Read next one!"

"Listen, Tad. The doggie lost his meat because he wanted the 'other' dog's meat. He was greedy. He ought—"

"Yes, Aunt Carrie. Read me 'bout lion all tied up and little mouse. Hurry up, Aunt Carrie!"

Auntie sighed at the impatience of youth and turned to the Lion and the Mouse.

"—And set the lion free." And that teaches us to be kind and helpful to everybody we meet. We never know—"

"Hurry up, Aunt Carrie. Soon it will be bedtime and you haven't gone to the wolf that ate the lamb yet. I like that one. 'You muddied the water,' said the wolf, and he didn't at all, and ate him right up. Read me that one!"

So Aunt Carrie turned to the Wolf and the Lamb and read that.

"—Seized the poor lamb, carried him off to the woods and ate him." Now that teaches us that—"

"Aunt Carrie, why didn't the lamb push the wolf into the water and drown him good and dead? Why didn't he, Aunt Carrie?"

"Lambs cannot push wolves into the water and drown them. Wolves are stronger than lambs. That's what the story teaches. It teaches us to look out—"

"Why didn't the lamb bite him and throw mud in his face and biff him on the nose with a rock? You bet I would've."

"But lambs can't fight! They're—"

"Then they're no good!" declared Tad stoutly. "They ought to—"

"Listen, Tad. This story teaches us that—"

"Bedtime, Tad," called mother. "Come along now."

"Dear me," sighed Auntie. "Wasted all that time. What is the good of reading to him when he isn't told what it means?"

He is not to be told what it means. Aesop's fables need no chart. No story needs to have a moral pinned to it. The story is for the story's sake first of all. The lesson it teaches is a matter between the story teller and the listener, between the writer and the reader. To each, his own profit. There may be some or none. Never mind!

The surest way to drive children away from a good book is to force them to distill it. Give it to them and let the matter rest there.

WATCHING THE PARADE

By JOHN PILGRIM

My old friend Porter says he isn't such a very smart man. He is a lucky man, he says. The right sort of thing happened to him. He says that unless the right sort of thing happens it is no use to expect success.

"Luck is the word," he says. "Things happen, or else they don't happen. You have good luck or bad luck. That's all."

The surprising thing about this denial of what has been written in every copybook since the Assyrians began to gouge mottoes in bricks is that Porter is a rich man. He is the only self-made rich man I ever met who is not inclined to ascribe his success to his super-qualities of body and brain. His boss shovelled Porter, who had not been an astounding success, into the management of a branch business that had been a steady loser. The boss planned to sell the business to a sucker sometime. Meanwhile, and in order to keep Porter quiet, he promised him a share in the losing business.

Then the town began to grow and Porter's business grew with it and presto, change! Here's Porter, as rich as Mississippi mud.

"I didn't do it," says Porter, seriously. "Looking backward at it now—for as soon as the business got to be a really big one I was crowded out—I can see a dozen mistakes I made. I made a success in spite of myself, because the town grew and our house grew with it. All luck."

His boss wears a sour grin when he hears Porter berate himself. It is noticeable that the boss keeps him on the payroll and asks his advice on most delicate matters.

"Porter was lucky," the boss says. "Only, what I say is this; good luck never comes to a dern fool."

FAMOUS MEN SAY WORLD GROWS BETTER

Sermon No. 8 in the series of nine on the general topic, "Is the World Growing Better?" being delivered in Central Christian church by Rev. Clifford A. Cole, consisted in the reading with little or no comment of letters from distinguished men all over the country in answer to these two queris: "In the light of the present situation as compared with history, is it your opinion that the world is growing better?" "If so, why do you think this?" Following are the names of those responding and their answers:

From Rev. R. H. Miller, pastor Independence Boulevard Christian church, Kansas City, Mo.:

"Is the world growing better? Yes. Reasons for this, a more enlightened and humane attitude towards women and children which is growing throughout the world. Emancipation of womanhood and the education of childhood will make for a better civilization. Then the growing hatred for war and for cruel strife as the solution of international, inter-racial and inter-class questions; the growing disinclination to glory in war and its success; the sense of responsibility upon the part of the more favored races for those less favored witnessed in the large funds raised to supply famine sufferers; the organization of great institutions for medical and surgical relief throughout the world; the growing prohibition sentiment, also the universal interest in the religion of Christ and the fact that religious questions as they have practical bearing upon personal and social problems are being discussed freely everywhere and everywhere the solutions of Jesus are being seriously considered; the fact that great public positions are held by men who are openly and avowedly Christian; great movements like the Christian conference held at Shanghai last year looking toward the organization of a Chinese Christian church; the proposed world conference on life and work to be held in Stockholm in 1925 when the great problems of the real and actual life of the world will be discussed in the light of Christian solution; the disposition on the part of employers and large capitalistic concerns to give more of their thought to the making of better men and of supplying condition under which men can live better lives, the disposition to give the worker a larger share of the fruits of his labor; the social obligation that is being introduced into modern education; the freeing of Christianity from hard theological interpretations and sectarian bias; the greater interest in missionary enterprises; the growing desire for cooperation in great humanitarian and missionary movements—these to me all indicate a better world."

From John Willis Baer, former president of Occidental college, now head of Pasadena branch of Pacific Southwest Trust & Savings bank:

"Yes, in my judgment, the world is growing better morally, religiously and spiritually.

"I reached this decision by comparing life today, nationally and internationally, with world conditions 50 years ago. Modern science and inventions bring us hourly and daily in contact with the good and the bad. We are shocked with the bad. Let me remind you, however, that Artemus Ward once said, 'the best article he ever saw on milk, was cream.' Very naturally, cream comes to the surface. Therefore, I declare that if discriminating judgment is shown in sizing up the present good and evil, there will be more good come to the surface than bad."

From George E. Cryer, mayor of Los Angeles:

"I think it is.

"The wonderful advance that has been made in the conditions under which the human family lives, the establishment of the status of women and children, the fact that the liquor traffic has been outlawed in America, and advancement is being made along the same lines in other countries, that legalized vice no longer exists in segregated districts in America, and other things that I might recite, lead me to believe that the world is surely growing better.

"True it is that the rising generation is not adhering so closely to the old standards as they used to; but when we take into consideration that their temptations are greater and have been multiplied in number and in the insidious ways in which they appeal to the passions, I am certain that the percentage of those who go wrong is not greater than it has been in the past."

From J. H. Garrison, editor emeritus, Christian Evangelist:

"I believe the world, as a whole, and in the long run, is growing better.

"Because of the moral and spiritual forces which God has set in motion for its betterment, chief among which is Christ and his religion. God's fatherhood means the perpetuation and ultimate triumph of these forces.

"Missionaries in all parts of the world are disseminating light and barbarous practices are being abandoned.

"The League of Nations and the proposed international court show a growing abhorrence of war.

"The triumph of prohibition sentiment in this nation and the abolition of slavery here and elsewhere.

"Legislation looking to the protection of labor and of the poor.

"The growing unity of the churches, and a better understanding of Christianity.

"Millions of Christians are praying daily, 'Thy kingdom come, Thy will be done on earth as it is in heaven.' God lives, and answers prayer."

From W. R. Warren, editor of the World Call, St. Louis:

"Yes, the world is growing better.

"Modern inventions and especially the improvement in communication between nation and nation and continent and continent have compressed the whole world into a neighborhood. For the moment this has a tendency to bring down the level of civilization in some quarters, but its permanent effect must be to lift the level of humanity to the plane of the highest.

"The general advance in education. There is a rapid reduction of illiteracy. Fundamentally and finally, ignorance is at the bottom of all vice and crime. The prayer of the Saviour on the cross, 'Father, forgive them for they know not what they do,' was not only the highest expression of idealism but a scientifically accurate statement of fact.

"The spread of Christianity, both through the quickening of the missionary enterprise and through the natural spread of the truth. Mohammedanism is the only other religion which is vigorous enough to withstand the progress of Christianity and its unity is broken and its days numbered."

From Dr. Chas. S. Medbury, pastor University Church of Christ, Des Moines, Iowa:

"With eyes wide open to present perils in world life and without in the least minimizing the power of influences working against the good, I am completely optimistic about the future. In briefest way may I suggest the background of such thinking?

"1. The plans that have failed and are failing are only plans of men—plans of human wisdom.

"2. There is a widespread recognition of the fact that there are bigger things involved in building a civilization than the wealth and wisdom, the political strategy and the petty force standards of men. We have been proved. We are becoming very humble. Man's extremity is proving again to be God's opportunity.

"3. The desperation of the forces of evil is a hopeful sign. The liquor forces sense the fact that they are fighting with their backs to the wall—and absolutely hopelessly—hence this bitter struggle. Nor will they be overcome easily. But they will be overcome!

"4. The promises of God spell victory. Truth has to die before pessimism gets right of way. 'He shal reign.' * * 'The word of our God shall stand forever.' * * 'The knowledge of the glory of the Lord shall cover the earth as the waters cover the sea.' And Jesus taught us to pray, 'Thy will be done, as in heaven, so on earth.'"

From Hon. Elbert H. Gary, head of U. S. Steel corporation, New York City:

"Yes.

"The acts, not words of men, that is, acts more than words of man, occupying high positions, prove it."

From Samuel Gompers, president American Federation of Labor:

"Notwithstanding the present disorganization among the peoples of the world caused by the terrific upheaval following the war, I sincerely believe that the world always has and will continue to grow better. This comes from the growth of knowledge. What people have gained in happiness in thousands of years has come from a better understanding of life. Undoubtedly the world has moved faster and farther since the invention of movable types than in all the days that had gone before. The printed word has revolutionized the thoughts and beliefs of all peoples that have passed from the savage state of life. Great inventions have been the means of making life more worth living."

From Dr. I. N. McCash, head of Phillips university, Enid, Okla.:

"I believe the world is growing better, because:

"1. Our knowledge of the world situation is so complete that famines, pestilence, floods, volcanoes, tidal waves, sufferers are not allowed to go without the necessities of life many days—even hours—where formerly they were allowed to perish through neglect, or ignorance, or racial hatred.

"2. The number of organizations based upon human needs are so nuemrous that people are at least sympathetically enlisted with more good enterprises than in the history of the world. I mention but a few such as the Y. M. C. A., the Y. W. C. A., Red Cross, Rotary, Kiwanis, and Lions' clubs, International Relations Institute, world peace societies, etc.

"3. While we hear of more violators of law in a given day than in previous years the news covers multitudes of people who were out of reach of daily news gatherers then.

"4. My last brief statement is that the world is growing better because the Kingdom of God, the principles of righteousness, the real influence of Christ, all are having expression in a greater and more diverse field of human life than ever before. Instance this in the number of cooperative industries in which the common laborer shares in profits; 800 of such in Chicago alone. The charitable institutions, hospitals in every land to care for the sick, free education, etc."

Mrs. Anna Atwater of United Christian Missionary society, St. Louis:

"I say yes.

"Because Christ is working in the world I believe it is growing better. This is a matter of faith. I think it has been planned by the Father that the world shall move toward Him, and not toward the evil one. So on general principles I think we are moving toward God.

"There never was a time when so much is being done for the betterment of the world and for the help of the helpless as in these days. Today in some of our best public schools doctors make examinations of the eyes and teeth, and examine the blood, throat and lungs, and have treatment given to children. If they are not able to pay for it, it is free. It seems to me this is really a wonderful thing for the uplift of the world.

"Milk is being furnished in the public schools for the little children. Those that are able to pay for it, pay for their bottle of milk. If they are poor, the public school fund pays for it. Who ever heard of such a thing 20 years ago?

"Then, notice our free clinics everywhere in the great cities, where splendid doctors give freely of their time ministering one or two hours a day to the poor. Think of the societies in our cities for furnishing ice in the hot weather for the sick babies. We found that this practice was being started in many of the South American republics. Is it not the spirit of the Master working through His church, reaching out into the world in a way which we never thought of in times past?

"Then too, there is a great deal being done in these days for the settlement of the trouble between capital and labor. I know of a number of great commercial institutions which are being carried on today absolutely on the principle of the Golden Rule, and men testify that the effort is a success; that men working in great commercial institutions are happy and successful when this plan is carried out.

"Have you noted that great editors, great statesmen, great publicists and great educators are saying with almost one accord that the only thing that can bring permanent peace in the world, the only thing that can make men able to live together and the nations able to live together, is the establishment in the hearts of men of the principles of Jesus Christ?"

From Walter F. Lineberger, congressman from ninth California district:

"I am glad to say that I believe the world is growing better because of the fact that more than ever before in the world's history, people are devoting themselves to practical idealism in politics and business and government.

"This movement has become particularly efficient because of our knowledge and application of organization for constructive effort and the dissemination of altruistic views. We have harnessed to the chariot of ideals the prancing steeds of modern science, modern transportation and modern communication.

"This has made the world in fact as well as in theory a great family, and has promoted understanding and brotherly feeling among the nations of the earth."

From Geo. P. Taubman, pastor First Christian church, Long Beach, Calif.:

"I believe the world is growing better even in the light of the present-day world situation. I base my conclusion, first of all, in my faith in the gospel and its power to change and redeem men and society."

From Alva W. Taylor, secretary Board of Temperance and Social Welfare, Disciples of Christ:

"I should say that in the light of the present day situation over the world, it is much worse today than it was before the beginning of the great war; there is more suspicion and hate and rivalry than ever before. The emergence of a hypernationalism of racial antipathies as manifested by the Ku Klux Klan, et cetera, go to show very bad symptoms of moral disease.

"I do not believe that this is permanent. Beneath the present situation everywhere the forces of friendship and peace and the better way are being greatly aroused and are beginning to manifest themselves. I believe we are ready for a great moral crusade, and it is the day of opportunity for the church to rise above partizanship, opportunism and all those limitations that hold institutions down and speak with a prophetic voice on behalf of the gospel of good will.

"As compared with other years when the world had been so shaken by strife as it has during the past decade, I believe the world is better than it was ever before. God is not laboring in vain and the fundamental truths of Christianity are slowly leavening the lump."

From Herbert L. Willett of Federal Council of Churches of Christ, Chicago:

"It is most certainly my opinion that the world is growing better.

"The reasons for this view are the following:

"1. The growing sensitiveness to the horror of war and the increasing desire for peace.

"2. The increasing protests against strong drink, and the advancing steps for its eradication.

"3. The advancing facilities for education and the wider area covered by educational processes.

"4. The efforts increasingly made to improve the conditions in industry; in the application of the golden rule to industrial life.

"5. The efforts to realize better conditions for childhood and womanhood throughout the world.

"6. The agitation in behalf of better race relations, involving the negro, the Jew and the oriental.

"7. The promotion of international justice and good will, including not only missionary activities but the recognition of mutual rights and responsibilities on the part of all nations, and the sentiment that something in the nature of a league or association of nations must be organized.

"8. The closer relationship of the various churches in the effort to make effective a united program in relation to the Kingdom of God."

From Rabbi Martin A. Meyer, Temple Emanuel, San Francisco:

"I am of the belief that the world is growing better despite all the maladjustments and difficulties of the present moment. I base my conclusions chiefly upon the marked contrast between life today and say of 500 years ago and particularly upon the development of modern science, both from the academic and practical point of view.

"I also feel that we have at last come to the time in which the spirit of men is freer than it used to be, so that there is more of understanding and fraternity in this world."

From Rev. Peter Ainslie, pastor Baltimore, Maryland, Christian Temple:

"I think the world is undoubtedly growing better, although at times it is difficult to observe that because of the social, economic and religious revolutions, which in their eddies sometimes make the impression on the casual observer that the world is growing worse. It may often be the fact that for a time it is really worse, such as is shown in the world war, and in the revolutions in Russia, but after a period we observe that these upheavals have been the results of abuses, and the tide again turns Godward. If we count by centuries, undoubtedly the world is growing better.

"I base my conclusions upon the fact that God lives, and that Christ is the World's Redeemer, and that its processes are by evolution rather than by revolution."

From Dr. Charles M. Sheldon, editor Christian Herald, author of "In His Steps:"

"I believe the world is growing better because of the fact of Jesus Christ in history. In spite of war and crime and human selfishness, all of which have been facts of history from the beginning of history, the world as a whole has in it the ideals and spirit of Jesus and millions are directing their lives accordingly. There have never been any 'good old times' in the sense that the past is better than the present. There is a growing acknowledgement of the power of Jesus in the affairs of men that to my mind means the establishment in the world of a rule of life that is shaping the thought and conduct of men for world betterment."

From Dr. Frank Crane, editor, and well-known writer of syndicated articles:

"Yes. Evolution and God."

From Dr. R. A. Torrey of Bible Institute:

"At the present time the world certainly does not seem to be growing better but I don't think that warrants us in thinking that this is necessarily the final apostasy. There is so much in present day developments that suggests Paul's description of the latter times, found in 2 Tim. 3: 1-5, that it inclines one to hope that we are coming to the end of the time of man's failure and the time is fast approaching of our Lord's return.

"As far as apostasy in the church is concerned, there certainly was a far greater apostasy at the opening of the nineteenth century than there is today, and also back in the eighteenth century."

From John J. Cantwell, bishop of diocese of Los Angeles and San Diego:

"It may be said without fear of contradiction, that we are far ahead of all past ages. Whether the world is better morally, and whether the sum total of happiness among the children of men is ever on the increase, are questions about which there may be considerable difference of opinion. To my mind morality—Christian morality which purifies the heart and moves the will toward righteous living, appears to be exerting a lesser influence now than at a previous period. There appears to be a weakening of the moral fibre of the Christian nations, as well as of individual Christians. The old time morality which ran deep and clear, though often, perhaps, noisily, seems to have given place to a mere outward respectability, placid it may be, but always shallow, a respectability which suffered rebuke from Jesus Christ in the parable of the Pharisee.

"The different parts of the world have been brought closer together by the discoveries of modern sciences, but these agencies which should unite men in a fraternal love and cooperation, are unfortunately being used to disseminate hate, prejudice and suspicion to the great detriment of human happiness.

"The fundamental virtues of family life are no longer respected. The divorce evil is corrupting the home, and a Christian home is the foundation on which the state is built. To my mind Christ must be restored to the state and to the family, if conditions are to improve, and to bring about this desired result Christian education for the young is of paramount importance. The ruins of pagan civilization in Egypt and Babylon, in Athens and in Rome, should teach us to place our trust in the moral code of Christ, rather than in the victories of our armies on the field, or the triumphs of our scientists in their laboratories."

From Rev. P. H. Welsheimer, pastor largest Christian church in the world, that at Canton, Ohio:

"I believe the world is growing better. We know more of the meanness in the world today than men used to know because of the publicity given by the press. When we consider the abolition of slavery, the closing up of the American saloon, the giving of the ballot to women, the attention being given to education, and especially to religious education, the laws on our statute books, protecting children; the elimination from much of the preaching of old, medieval, cantankerous theology, and the attempt to get back to the simplicity of the Scriptures, all point to better days."

From J. W. Utter, Bellflower, Calif., founder and first pastor of Glendale Christian church:

"I believe most decidedly that the world is growing better, for, looking backward over the history of the world, I find no period in which the world was not worse than it is today.

"Hon. W. C. Wood, state superintendent of education, in a baccalaureate address, delivered in Pomona recently, reviewed the history of the world, socially, politically, religiously and educationally, showing that in all these particulars the world has made most decided improvement during the last 100 years and declared that no one acquainted with history could fix upon any period of the past which was comparable with the present time.

"The three greatest evils which have cursed the race from the beginning are these: slavery, war and intemperance.

"Less than 100 years ago, slavery was openly practiced over the whole world, and in the United States, the leading nation of the world, was not only practised, but was defended by many great religious leaders of our country. Slavery has been abolished.

"Concerning the New England Puritans of the eighteenth century, Daniel Dorchester says, 'The drinking habits of all classes, ministers included, hung like a dead weight upon the churches. Ordinations were seasons of festivity in which copious drinking had a large share.' Rev. Leonard Wood in 1816 said, 'I remember when I could reckon up among my acquaintances, 40 ministers, who were either drunkards or far addicted to drinking.' During the early days of the temperance movement in the United States, many of the clergy were bitterly opposed to it. Sermons were preached, books and pamphlets written to prove that the liquor traffic was sanctioned by the Bible and by the example of Christ.

"These incidents are cited to show the revolution of sentiment which has taken place in regard to this great evil within the past 100 years. This change of sentiment has crystallized into the eighteenth amendment, which has outlawed the liquor traffic, the saloon in the United States and has placed this amendment in our federal constitution by the largest majority of any amendment ever added to the constitution.

"War has existed during the entire history of the world—wars of conquest, pillage and plunder. War as a means of settling disputes, national and international, has gone on throughout the history of the world, practically unquestioned. Witness now the protests against war as a means of settling such questions: the Hague tribunal; the League of Nations and covenant of peace; the Four Power Pact for the limitation of armaments; the proposition for an international court of justice. These institutions and movements are so many reform movements aimed at the suppression of war."

SWAP "SADDLE" FOR "GRECIAN"

SAN FRANCISCO, Calif., June 26.—The art of changing "saddle noses" to "Grecian straights" of Apollo or Venus design will be demonstrated by Dr. Lee Cohen of Baltimore, Md., at the seventy-fourth annual convention of the American Medical association.

The art, technically known as corrective rhinoplasty, will be one of the features of the scientific exhibit being held at the civic auditorium in connection with the A. M. A. meet. The photographs and models on display show individuals with grotesquely oversized noses, with a "before and after" effect. To overcome a "saddle nose," Dr. Cohen points out, it is merely necessary to graft a part of a rib where the nose should be.

Dr. Cohen, who will address the convention next Friday, points out through his exhibit that the prerequisite to success in all plastic work is a well-rounded surgical training, which, he says, is often lacking in those attempting corrective operations on the nose. Work of inexperienced men, he says, often results disastrously for the patient.

The world is getting better. You hardly ever find a bright young man doing parlor tricks nowadays.

FOURTH OF JULY CELEBRATION IS BEING PLANNED

Community Service Is to Stage Children's Parade and Races

The Fourth of July is not to go by this year entirely without some activity for the children of the city of Glendale. A huge bicycle parade and races are being arranged for the forenoon. All boys and girls from babies up who have either a bicycle, tricycle, gocycle, scooter or other vehicle are to be given a chance to decorate them and enter the parade. Since it is Independence Day the patriotic colors are in order for decoration.

Twenty or more prizes are to be given away. Children will be classified according to ages. Best decorated vehicles will be given prizes for participation in the parade. These prizes have been turned over by the bicycle dealers of the city.

Parade participants are asked to gather at the high school grounds at 9:30 a. m. the morning of the Fourth. The line of march will then be up Brand boulevard to some street that will be roped off for the races. All parade entrees are asked to enrol at the Community Service office at 150 South Brand or to telephone to Glen. 3070.

Old time bicycles and unocycles will be features of the parade. Stunts by trick riders will play a large part in the racing program.

Some of the races already scheduled will be: one-fourth mile, one-half mile, slow race, potato race, scramble race, and many others.

ROLLER TOWEL IS NOW OUTLAWED EVERYWHERE

"Any down-at-the-heel city lodging house or backwoods boarding establishment that still offers the unlucky guest the promiscuous hospitality of a roller towel," says Dr. J. S. Crumbine of the American Child Health association, who became the first state health officer of Kansas 19 years ago, and in that time built up a modern public health department which has led the way among all other states in a series of notable public health innovations, "is courting the risk of a double unpopularity. It is laying itself open to the penalty of the law for one thing, and for another is in a fair way to become known in its locality as a 'haunted' house. For the solitary surviving roller towel of today, if there is one, is the ghost of a defunct public institution—thanks to the work of the Kansas health board, for we were the first to show up the dingy roller towel as a red flag of peril.

"It is a notorious ghost too—one of the most scandalous spectres in history. The stains of its career have imprinted menace and disaster on all its long length. When we began our investigation, we went to six different Kansas towns and bought, begged, or purloined as we could a batch of roller towels in use which we sent to the university bacteriological laboratory. Twenty-five per cent of these towels were contaminated with fecal discharges. In our evidence was also the story of a young woman who had gone blind within 48 hours as a result of a venereal eye infection transmitted by a roller towel in an office building.

"When we submitted our data to the board of health, they did not postpone action, but voted the roller towel out of business then and there."

Dr. Crumbine has just ended his work with the Kansas Board of Health, and is transferring his activities to a nation-wide field as associate director of medical service of the American Child Health association, a national organization devoted to the advancement of health standards with especial regard to the needs of children throughout the nation. Herbert Hoover is president of this association, which has its headquarters at 532 Seventeenth street, Washington and administrative offices at 370 Seventh avenue, New York City.

UNIVERSAL LANGUAGE MAKES GREAT STRIDES IN ENGLAND

[By Associated Press]

LONDON, June 26.—Esperanto, the universal language, is making much headway in England among the commercial classes. The British Esperanto association, organized in the interests of furthering the language in Great Britain, has grown by leaps and bounds.

The association has about 15,000 active members, and classes are held in London seven times a week. Hundreds of pupils have already graduated from the course and readily find positions translating the language for use on the continent, where it is now become a popular form of communication between commercial houses.

THE JOURNEY

I find a detour here and there
When I set forth some day
To make a journey to somewhere,
But so much good highway.
So there are bad spots in the road
For you and me, my lad,
But there is so much good we find
It far outruns the bad.

I find an enemy perhaps,
Before my journey ends,
But in my travels through the world
I find so many friends.
So there are evils that pursue
And trials that are sad,
But we find ere the day is through
The good outweighs the bad.

I find a thistle as I go
With thorny stalk and stem,
But flowers, too, and row on row,
So many kinds of them.
And so we find upon the path
As to and fro we wind,
There is a share of chill and wrath,
But so much that is kind.

I find me tears and little frets
In traveling the miles,
But ere the sun of daytime sets
I find so many smiles.
And so 'tis true in everything,
And we shall know, my lad,
That as we travel through the world
The good outweighs the bad.

Athletes in Italy Training Actively for Next Olympiad

[By Associated Press]

ROME, June 27.—Italy will be a factor to be reckoned with in the 1924 Olympics at Paris, if the preparations of the Italian Olympic committee are an indication. Italy, since the war, has taken an enormous brace in athletics, and in many branches of sport is developing material certain to compete strongly against the older sport nations. Each city and village has its own sports organization, and every vacant lot is being commandeered by aspiring athletes for their incipient training. Football is especially popular.

In the field and track events a large number of strong athletes have come to the front. Zucca does the 100 meter run in 10 -45. Giorgio can make the 200 meters in 22 4-5. Cominotto is Italy's popular 800-meter man, doing the distance in 1 minute 54 seconds. The Marathon is done by Speroni and Benedetti. Frigerto, winner of both walking features in the last Olympics, is now Italy's sporting hero, having recently beaten the Olympic record. The best pentathlon man is Contoli.

MANY FARMS IDLE

HARRISBURG, June 27.—More than 300,000 acres of farm land remain idle in Pennsylvania this summer, largely as a result of the shortage of farm hands. This total is about ten per cent of the total agricultural acreage of the state.

WELFARE BUREAU NEEDS CLOTHING FOR DISTRESSED

Those Having Discarded Apparel and Comforts Asked to Report

At the regular meeting of the Glendale Welfare bureau and council held at the city hall Monday night, it developed from the reports of officers that the bureau has need of clothing, men's shoes and comforts. Persons having any of these things they are willing to donate, are asked to communicate with Mrs. E. D. Yard, president, Glen. 1142-W, or Mrs. L. W. Sinclair, Glen. 232-J, and the articles will be called for.

Present at the meeting were Mrs. E. D. Yard, president; Mrs. L. W. Sinclair, treasurer; Mrs. E. L. Young, secretary; Mrs. E. Gilliland, director.

Reports of work done during the past month were submitted as follows:

By the welfare bureau: Home visits, 27; interviews at office, 25; families assisted, 14; new cases registered, 5; employment secured for 15, three city orders for groceries issued amounting to $18.50.

By the welfare council: Clothing dispensed, 402 articles; canned goods given out, 48 cans; checks for relief given, $107.75.

Alaskan Volcano Again in Eruption

[By Associated Press]

KINGS COVE, Alaska, June 27.—Shishaldin volcano, on Unimak Island, which erupted violently November 20, 1922, was emitting bursts of heavy smoke early in May, officers of the coast guard cutter Haida reported on arrival of the vessel here in the course of her annual patrol of Alaskan and Bering Sea waters.

The 1922 eruption of Shishaldin was picturesque, according to the stories of eyewitnesses. Great flames burst from the crater and the top of the volcano was blown high in the air, about 200 feet of the summit disappearing. Lava poured down the canyons, melting the snow, and the black streams could be seen for miles. Lava continued to flow for three days, and heavy smoke was emitted for more than a week. At one of the lighthouses on Unimak pass, the flames lighted up the sky for days, appearing, according to the keepers, in the form of a cross.

On Christmas Eve, 1922, Pavlof Volcano, on the Alaskan peninsula, was in eruption and lava flowed for several days thereafter, with a heavy emission of smoke for a longer period.

Natives at villages visited by the Haida declared that Bogoslov, the "disappearing island" that first appeared from the sea during a period of heavy earthquakes and volcanic activity in 1906, had changed its contour during the last year, but the report could not be verified. Scientists declare that Bogoslov is in reality a submerged volcano, only the peak appearing above the surface of the ocean.

Some women always have a place for everything and put it there—then proceed to forget the location of the place.

A happy medium ought to make good at a spiritual seance.
